How Great The Human Experience

How great is the human experience of fear. To experience fear executed by way of the ego; constant awareness learning to overcome it's shortcomings so as to learn faith and trust in the Almighty.

How great the human experience of judgement. To be a god where the belief is in that God judges, but the soul believes not; overruling God by judging every little thing, the soul has not yet learned there is only one God. Again, a lack of faith and trust.

How great the human experience of separation. To experience loneliness, emptiness, the feeling of disconnection from all of creation; where love is choked because love is the breath of life; all to re-discover that all of creation is connected and all is One in the life of love.

How great the human experience of duality. To experience feelings and emotions. Battling the forces of goodness and negativity. To love each from its own measures, positive or negative; all in building wisdom through those experiences, judging oneself from one's own principles and chosen directions.
